

31 March, 2022

March 31 is Trans Day of Visibility.

Trans Day of Visibility is an annual international day of pride and celebration for gender diverse identity, achievements, and community.

The Centre for Non-Violence's vision is for gender and social equality in a violence free world.

Equality means equal rights for all, genuine engagement, participation and visibility in all our social systems and structures.

We know that our social systems, structures and community attitudes do not create safety and equality for the transgender, diverse and non-binary community. We must do more to create safety, equality and opportunity.

The Centre for Non-Violence affirms and commits to being a genuine ally to the transgender, diverse and non-binary community.

We do so by working to provide safe, gender affirming services to members of the trans, gender diverse and non-binary community. In particular, we commit to:

- Achieving Rainbow Tick accreditation
- Providing LGBTIQ+ inclusive practice training to our staff and board
- Genuinely engaging with and hearing from the voices of trans and gender diverse people to help inform how we deliver services and programs
- Creating a welcoming environment for trans and gender diverse people through displaying trans and LGBTIQ+ flags and signage in our buildings
- Continuing to build capacity and expertise in supporting diversity and safety to everyone in our community.

Find out more about Trans Day of Visibility here: <https://tdov.org.au/>